

Pass the Baton

A close-up photograph showing a hand on the left holding a silver baton, which is being passed to another hand on the right. The background is a clear blue sky.

Let the Temple touch them before you let go...

Pass the Baton

A close-up photograph showing a hand on the left holding a silver baton, which is being passed to another hand on the right. The background is a clear blue sky.

Let the Temple touch them before you let go...

“The late Elder Matthew Cowley, who was a member of the Quorum of the Twelve Apostles, once recounted the Saturday afternoon experience of a grandfather as hand in hand he took his small granddaughter on a birthday visit—not to the zoo or to the movies but to the temple grounds. With permission of the groundskeeper, the two walked to the large doors of the temple. He suggested that she place her hand on the sturdy wall and then on the massive door. Tenderly he then said to her, “Remember that this day you touched the temple. One day you will go inside.” His gift to the little one was not candy or ice cream but an experience far more significant and everlasting—an appreciation of the house of the Lord. She had touched the temple, and the temple had touched her.”

Thomas S. Monson, “Blessings of the Temple,” Liahona, Oct 2010, 12–19

“The late Elder Matthew Cowley, who was a member of the Quorum of the Twelve Apostles, once recounted the Saturday afternoon experience of a grandfather as hand in hand he took his small granddaughter on a birthday visit—not to the zoo or to the movies but to the temple grounds. With permission of the groundskeeper, the two walked to the large doors of the temple. He suggested that she place her hand on the sturdy wall and then on the massive door. Tenderly he then said to her, “Remember that this day you touched the temple. One day you will go inside.” His gift to the little one was not candy or ice cream but an experience far more significant and everlasting—an appreciation of the house of the Lord. She had touched the temple, and the temple had touched her.”

Thomas S. Monson, “Blessings of the Temple,” Liahona, Oct 2010, 12–19